EASTERN DATES TO JULY 10.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The passage of the tax bill by the Senate retaining the income tax does not give general satisfaction.

The Currency bill has passed both Houses and Congress is now busily engaged with the Appropriation and Deficiency bills.

The House Committee on the Pacific railroads, at their meeting on Tuesday, adopted a substitute for a bill recently passed by the Senate, incorporating the Texas Pacific railroad. The new bill which will come up in the House to-morrow strikes out the provision fixing the gauge at five feet and all sections relating to branch roads. The proviso was added that this act does not affect the rights of the Southern Pacific railroad of Texas or any other roads chartered by that State. The stockholders are required to pay up ten per cent. on $5,000,000 instead of on $2,000,000 as provided for in the Senate bill and capital stock is reduced from $100,000,000 to $50,000,000. The incorporators with Fremont at their head are the same as in the original bill.

Axtell endeavored to have the Southern Pacific Railroad of California a continuation of the road to San Francisco, but the Committee would not agree to include any branch roads at either end of the main trunk road.

The appropriation of $100,000 for improving the harbor of Wilmington, and constructing a breakwater there failed to pass in the Senate yesterday.

The Goat Island contest will not be renewed this session.

The bill to make Arizona a separate surveying district and to establish the office of Surveyor General passed both houses.

House Judiciary Committee is said to stand 7 to 1 in favor of reporting adversely to McGarrahan's claim.

A bill to repeal Jose Dominguez' claim to certain lands in Santa Barbara county, California, which passed the House yesterday, has been referred to the Senate committee on private land claims. The report of the House committee pronounces this matter in all its phases as the boldest and most astounding case of attempted fraud and swindling which they have yet been called upon to examine.

The report of conference Committee on the mining bill has been agreed to by both houses.

The Austrian steamship bill will pass Congress this session. The press of business only prevents immediate action.

Hardenberg is sanguine of being nominated for Surveyor General of California.

The new currency bill, the first financial measure to pass both Houses this session, is now awaiting the President's signature to become a law. It provides for an increase of fifty four millions bank note currency, retires forty-five millions from excess held by north and east to south and west. It provides for free banking on 4 per cent. gold bond basis. It does not inflate the volume of currency a dollar. Legal tender notes will take the place of 3 per cents as bank reserve, while additional bank notes will supply the place of legal tenders thus withdrawn, to which, however, must be added twenty per cent more as a reserve for aforesaid new issue of bank notes. In this way the present equilibrium of volume of currency is preserved, being neither contracted nor expanded.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A London special to the Herald says that a crisis is imminent on the continent. Military preparations were going on all last night in Paris. If the candidature of Prince Leopold is not withdrawn within twenty-four hours the French Ministers will be recalled from Berlin and Madrid and war declared. The conduct of France in forcing an issue and refusing to leave the question of the throne to the Spanish people is strongly condemned by all Europe, and Prussia's calm and dignified position is approved.

Later negotiations are reported to have been unsatisfactory. Prussia declaring her innocence of intrigue, refuses to interfere with the candidacy of Hohenzollern on the ground that that she has neither the right, power nor inclination to dictate to Spain or to Prince Leopold. A large party in France counsel the suspension of action till the meeting of the Spanish Cortes. It is the general belief that the Emperor is determined to fight and will move immediately without giving Prussia time for preparation. It is said that Napoleon would prefer to meet the issue now than after Leopold is elected by the Spanish people, especially as he bases the claims of his own dynasty on the popular vote.

Washington News.—Cuban News.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The President sent to the Senate yesterday, a mass of documents concerning the seizure of American vessels and the imprisonment and execution of citizens of the United States during the hostilities in Cuba. The State department furnishes a letter from Secretary Fish dated June 9th, to N. Parish, our Minister, calling his attention to a circular and the arbitrary manner in which persons and properties of our citizens were taken and held by Spanish authorities in Cuba. Mr. Fish recalls the Roberts' resolution and the protests of the President last year against Valmaseda's mode of warfare and against the Captain General's decree forbidding the alienation of property on the island, so far as regards American citizens and others. He continues that the United States Government with regret, is forced to inform them that the provisions of the treaty of 1795 on this head have not been kept in mind by the Cuban authorities during the present struggle, and that the decree mentioned has been put in operation against the property of American citizens in violation of the treaty. It is confidently expected that steps will be taken to insure against the further violation of the treaty. Roberts, on June 24th, in effect replied that he has no power in the matter. Fish on the same day, sent a copy of his letter to Roberts and to Minister Sickles at Madrid. The latter is instructed to ask for the restoration to citizens of the United States of their property, so far as the same has been arbitrated and embargoed in violation of the treaty.

Secretary Fish has consented to remain in the Cabinet until the first of October.

BY THE CABLES.

BERLIN, July 10.—Military men here are not excited about the embroglio. War is thought to be impossible.

PARIS, July 10—5 P. M.—The excitement at the Bourse is unaltered. Rentes has declined to 69 francs 25 centimes. Negotiations continue but it is impossible to predict the result. The answer of Prussia is expected to-night or to-morrow. If unsatisfactory, necessary measures to enforce with arms the rights of France will immediately be taken. Already the government is preparing for an emergency.

PARIS, July 10—10 P. M.—The excitement on the Bourse is intense. Rentes have fallen to 67 francs 50 centimes. It is reported that the Government will wait for a reply from Prussia until Monday.

FRANKFORT, Sunday, July 10.—Bonds have fallen to 94@94¼.

Decoration Day at Andersonville—Relics of the Old Prison.

[Cor. of the N. Y. Evening Post.

About 8 o'clock on the morning of the 30th the special train from Atlanta left Macon with its eight passenger cars, loaded with people and flowers, bound for Andersonville. One car contained Gov. Bullock and his friends; the others were occupied mostly by colored people, and many others were taken on at the stations by the way, till, ere the train reached Andersonville, the cars were all crowded.

The distance from Macon is, perhaps, sixty miles, through a wild, wooded country. White men looked savagery at us from the stations as we passed. No doubt it was aggravating to them, for there was a band on board which played our national airs, and four thousand little flags, which had been taken down to put upon the graves, were distributed among the crowd and fluttered from the windows.

Reaching Andersonville, we left the cars and marched to the cemetery, a few rods distant from the railroad where we stopped. Never had such a procession entered those gates before. The band was at the head, then the Governor and his wife, members of the Legislature and their wives, ladies, the flag, citizens, a long line of them. The road on either side was lined by a wall of colored people all the way from the gates to the hill, in the cemetery, on which is planted the flag-staff. I should think the whole colored population of Andersonville must have stood there, perfectly straight in line, their faces intent with eager interest.

Reaching a grove, the exercises were commenced by a short speech from Gen. Kryzanowsky, Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic of Georgia. The band played, then the Rev. Dr. Pierson, who was last year driven from his post in Andersonville, by the Ku Klux, made a prayer. Afterwards Gov. Bullock made a short address, and was followed by the Rev. Dr. Colyer, of Ohio, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Army of the Republic, and others. Two soldiers were with us who had escaped from Andersonville, and Gen. Lewis told their story in a very affecting manner, their presence adding to the effect. The benediction was pronounced by a young colored man who is studying for the ministry, when we all scattered to the business of decorating the graves.

Nearly 14,000 lie buried there. We had not many flowers, the season of roses being passed with us. We had twined wreaths of evergreens, and with what flowers we had been able to get, proceeded to lay our offerings on the graves. Being from Connecticut, I singled out those where the boys from my own State layed buried, and laid one flower or sprig of evergreen, or planted one flag on each grave till I had nothing left to give, and then took off the red, white and blue spangled ribbon that I wore, cut that in fragments, and put that there too, and turned away in sadness, for I had not traversed one half the avenues, and not all of us together could deck the whole of them with even a single offering.

Close together, side by side, they lie, long rows of them, reaching so far that walking all the way among them is a weary effort, especially in the burning sun that shed its rays upon us that day.

The stockade stands a half mile distant. It is formed of a double palisade of logs, now falling into decay. The most touching feature of it now, to me, was the wells, deep and dry, dug by the soldiers in a vain attempt to find water. There are forty-two of them scattered about, and they were dug with case knives and other such implements as they could get, the dirt carried out in their pockets, and scattered around so as not to attract attention. From some of these they undermined the earth, and made their escape, or tried and miserably failed and were brought back, or perished in the attempt.

War among Workingmen in New York—A Terrible Rumpus.

Some of the workingmen at the East are as hot and intemperate and foolish in talking about the Chinese as Democratic orators on the Pacific coast. The New York Herald of June 26th has the following article:

If the Workingmen's Union had met on a Saturday night the rampant rubbish of its resolutions and speeches against John Chinaman would have appeared quite natural, and would not have been unaccounted for, but to meet on a Friday, and such a hot Friday, too, and propose such terrible things, is enough to fright the isle from its prosperity. The workingmen are for once agreed on one point, which is that something must be done to stop the "monstrous importation of the uncivilized, unsocial, and, comparatively, non-consuming infidel." This much is clear, then, and quite proper, for of course it is a horrible thing to be an infidel, especially in a country where people have an absolute freedom to believe what they like, and where, therefore, it is quite inexcusable not to believe at all. If it is bad to be an infidel in a country, having such advantages for great faith, how much worse is it to be uncivilized in a land where the workingmen give such brilliant examples of the benefits of civilization by proposing to make sausages out of every creature whose gibberish they do not understand. It is a high crime, therefore, to be an infidel—people have been burned at the stake for it; it is still higher crime to be uncivilized; but the greatest crime is to be a "comparatively" non-consuming infidel." What can you do with a fellow for whom it is useless to brew the tempting lager—who cares not a button whether beef is two cents a pound or forty—who, in fact, has the thrift that lives on rice and saves money? He will not continue poor even on compulsion. He will not tipple nor join your trades unions, nor contribute his weekly earnings to exalt demagogues, or to support idleness on the pretext of a strike for wages. Not he. The only thing you can do, then, is to launch resolutions against him with the thermometer at ninety-four, and fancy you are patriotic when you are only ridiculous. The workingmen are agreed that the Chinese laborer must be annihilated; they are not agreed as to how it shall be done. Blissert, a tailor, who is doubtless a fine fellow, proposes to "shoulder the rifle." No doubt this is habit. Blissert probably carried a rifle so long in the war that his indignation naturally takes that shape. He also wants to get at the hair of the man who brought the Chinese over; but he will not harm the Chinaman's hair, because, likely, they have so little. Crase, another tailor, is bloodthirsty, and would "kill them all off," and Masterson, who is a cutler, significantly proposes "take care of this business" by a secret council of ten hundred, every man with a mask on his face and a pair of shears under his jacket. They are dreadful chaps, these tailors. And Mr. Young, the head of the workingmen's organization, hopes that the "resort to arms" will not be necessary, but "dares to lead" in case it proves so. He would have inquests. What a relic of other and more ignorant times is all this balderdash! How hackneyed and trite is all this superfluous indignation! When the Irishman first came to these shores the workingmen made the same pother against his cheap labor as they now make against John Chinaman; an equal indignation fumed itself against the Germans. Against all sorts of labor-saving machinery there was an excitement that quite belittled all similar excitements. The excitement against the Chinese is only one more similar opportunity for the men who lead the trade societies to make noise and hear their own sweet voices.

Vienna will have a "universal exposition" in 1873.

FOREIGN NOTES.

England has 2,500 collieries. We are occasionally favored with striking proofs of their existence.

It has been shown in the French Academy that some plants are as sensitive to the influence of chloroform as animals.

The piano manufacturers of London turn out 104,000 pianos a year. At that rate every Englishman's house should not be his castle but his forte.

Charles Reade, the English novelist, wants to come to America to give readings or lectures. He can find no manager who will undertake the job at his figures, which are presumedly extravagant.

The whole population of the Indian Empire, including British Burmah, amounts to 212,671,021, and occupies a territory estimated to contain 1,577,698 square miles. The males are to the females as fifty-four to forty-five.

A fellow in Paris makes a livelihood by rescuing a confederate from drowning in the Seine. One falls in; the other pulls him out; a collection is taken up; and the couple seek the nearest wine shop, and enjoy themselves.

The population of Ireland, on the 1st of January last, was 5,798,867. The total births during the year were 145,912, while deaths were 90,039. The registered marriages were 34,736. The allowance of children to each couple is just about two and a half.

London is blest with 20,000 vagabonds of "various degrees." Which preponderate, the A. M., D. D., or LL. D's.? The City Press exclaims in despair, "the more we do for the vagabond class the more their numbers increase." "Pity 'twere 'twere true; and if 'twere true 'twere pity."

In acknowledging the receipt of a copy of Mr. C. F. Hursthouse's brochure on "Australian Independence," Mr. Carlyle, addressing the author, says: "I participate, and have long done, in your patriotic sorrow, astonishment and indignation at the course our English Government has got into in regard to its colonies."

The amount asked for in a Scotch breach of promise suit is $60. In a recent case the following love letter was offered in evidence. "Dear Love the time iss faist a proaching when we must be to gather my Dear it will be a marfaday when the heven and the earth shall pass away and there shall be no more seas." The plaintiff's mother proved that owing to the match being broken off the girl became affected. The advocate asked, "In what way was she affected?" The mother replied, "I didna see her heart to ken that." The girl got her case, the mother's evidence being circumstantial evidence that she had lost her heart according to the usual course of things, and that it would take £12 to restore the organ.

THE DREAM OF ST. LOUIS.—In the course of a very long and able article on St. Louis as a railroad centre, the Democrat of that city says:

Thirteen railroads now centre at St. Louis. Four more are in progress, and within the coming year will be at the least partly constructed, while the great bridge to be completed soon after will afford ready transit from each to every other. The work already done secures to St. Louis a commanding position in the commerce of the West.

Eight roads now reach this city from the eastern side of the river. The Decatur road is just finished, by connection with the Great Western, Lake Shore, New York Central, and Hudson River, all under the control of Vanderbilt, gives a complete through route from this city to New York. The Indianapolis and St. Louis, also completed, gives direct connection with the Pennsylvania Central and its associate roads, forming another through route under one direction. The Erie road has just opened a splendid office here, and with the Atlantic and Great Western and Ohio and Mississippi, forms a third through route to New York. The officers of the Baltimore and Ohio having recently visited this city, are making some arrangements to secure control of another independent route to St. Louis, so that we shall soon have four distinct complete routes to the east, each under one management. We need not say that the prospect of early completion of a bridge at this point has given great stimulus to the efforts of railroad men to perfect their connections with this city.

The review of the present railroad communications of St. Louis shows that wonderful progress has been made within two years. This city, so long almost isolated, begins to take its proper place in the natural centre of the whole railroad system of the country. No other city in the country has the situation and natural facilities to perform so large a part of the exchange of products between North and South, East and West, and that domestic commerce, swelling in volume every year, already exceeds in importance, many times over, the entire foreign commerce of the nation. Yet the foreign commerce mainly has built up the great city of New York—a traffic never exceeding $800,000,000 yearly. What mighty city, then, will be required as the central and distributing point of a domestic commerce already exceeding five thousand millions yearly, and doubling with every decade? We suppose the population of this city is about 300,000. And if its railroad facilities continue to extend as they have done; if its manufactures continue this recent rapid growth; if its trade continues the wonderful extension and revival which has been witnessed within two years, St. Louis will have not less than 1,000,000 of inhabitants within twenty years of this date.

THE YALE SYSTEM OF EDUCATION.—The New York Times says the earnest discussion which has been going on concerning the comparative merits of classical and scientific studies, is beginning to produce practical results at the great seats of learning. Several of our colleges have modified their courses in obedience to the more practical requirements of the time, but we believe that none of them have gone quite so far as Yale. In the new number of the College Courant we find a communication from Prof. James D. Dana, giving a sketch of what he calls "the Yale University scheme." Substantially it amounts to the organization of two distinct colleges, one classical and the other scientific. In each of these the first two years of the course are prescribed, but afterward a wide range of optional studies are offered to the student, thus allowing him to conform to the special requirements of his intended business or calling.

Graduates of the Academic College will receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and those of the Scientific School that of Bachelor of Philosophy. Post graduates can, after two years' study take the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, or after one years' study of engineering, they may take the degree of Civil Engineer; Prof. Dana states that the Yale scheme does not contemplate any important change in the Classical College, except to put the study of modern languages on a par with that of Latin and Greek, and he expresses the hope that ultimately a knowledge of French and German will be required from candidates for admission to the College.

John Quill says it is not true that New York editors have but one shirt. They wear none. "The journalistic costume there is a coat buttoned close around the neck, with a turned paper collar pinned to the inside. Mr. Greeley designed this dress."

TUESDAY MORNING JULY 1[illegible] 1870

Oregon Railroad Interests

The newspapers [illegible] of the State are largely [illegible] to discussions of the various phases of railway projects and interests. In the southern [illegible] the people seem to be awake [illegible] of the situation. They [illegible] they should have known [illegible] that their [illegible] of [illegible] railroad [illegible] all depends on the success of the measure relative to the Humboldt branch, which Senator Williams has supported and for which he and the Republican party have been so violently assailed. The Roseburg [illegible] has the subjoined remarks

> If the Humboldt Branch bill which has already passed the Senate becomes a law our railroad is secured if, on the contrary [illegible] and his coadjutors succeed in defeating it or amending the bill so as to make the branch terminate at Eugene City then the people of the Umpqua and Rogue River valleys will have ground for apprehension that there is no railroad to be built through their country for the present In that event the people of Southern Oregon will have the consoling reflection that in defeating the re-election of Senator Williams they defeated their own railroad The Democratic press of Southern Oregon have joined their brethren of the northern part of the State in cursing Senator Williams for securing the passage of the bill bringing the Humboldt Branch into the Rogue River valley, which is the measure upon which more than anything else rests our hope of railroad communication with the rest of the world But for the opposition of of our Democratic Representative [illegible] pass the House without difficulty By that opposition it may be defeated

The Eugene Journal has a severe article on those persons here who [illegible] before the election that the Republican party was [illegible] out to a monopolist [illegible] who have [illegible] the play by allowing the west side franchise to go to this same monopolist That paper says

> The people will now see—Democrats as well as Republicans—that if what these men said before the election were true, they deserve the contempt of all honest men for "selling out the interests of Oregon to a monopolist," and if their statements were false, so as to justify their present conduct, then they are unworthy of further confidence We do not refer to the west side people or a majority of the company who had control of the road, but to the managers and "capitalists" who made all the noise, and then allowed the enterprise to pass into the hands of Holladay because they would not furnish the means to carry it forward. They tampered with the interests of the people—would not build railroads with their own capital and sought to prevent others from doing it. They tried to deprive all Southern Oregon of the means of ever getting a railroad, and the people of that section now owe it to themselves to take the matter in hand and secure their interests while they can.

Referring to the announcement that Col Chapman will speak on railroad topics at Jacksonville on Saturday next the Journal says

> Col. Chapman is the author of the resolution favoring two roads in the Wallamet valley, and one to Jacksonville He is a leading Democrat and was a very distinguished member of the last Democratic Legislature. He stood up for the rights and interests of Southern Oregon during the wild crusade waged against them by the organs of Kelly, Smith, Nesmith Grover, and all that nest of demagogues and will be able to speak to the Democrats of Southern Oregon from a Democratic standpoint The railroad interests of Oregon will be paramount to all other interests for some years to come, and questions touching men and measures should be decided mainly with reference to their bearing on the subject, in such manner as will most rapidly and permanently build up the general interests of the whole State.

The people of the Southern counties doubtless fully understand that the moment Senator Williams lets go his hold the Humboldt bill is likely to pass in such a form as to deprive them of all hopes of a railroad He cannot hold it where it is much longer for only a few months of his term remain

The Sentimental Position

An Eastern paper has the following observations on the Indian problem

> Would it not really be a good plan to try the experiment of sending honest men to deal with the Indians? We have tried nearly everything else, from strychnine to the palaver of the Quakers, and nothing gives us a satisfactory result In the recent Indian speeches the burden of the cry is that they have been cheated, right and left, on all occasions, and in every way Now as the nation certainly has a disposition to exhaust fair means, why not try the proposition of Red Cloud and deal with the red men through honest agents? At least make it certain that the Indian hostility is not because of his discontent over dishonest practices.

It will be seen that this writer is full of the idea that the Indian is an unspoiled child of nature, entirely guileless and incapable of a wrong, cruel or revengeful action It is also his idea that the whites on the other hand are at the bottom of all the troubles that occur with the Indians, and that there never was an honest Indian agent People who entertain views of this kind are not capable of giving any counsel worth having in anything that pertains to our Indian policy They are afflicted with sentimental and impracticable notions about the Indians of which they can be cured only by actual contact with them on the frontier But if they would reflect a little they would see no reason for the supposing that the Indian is now anything different from what he was when their ancestors were brought in contact with him at the East a century or two ago And we guess that on the whole the men of the West do not now deal with the Indians more sharply than the Eastern settlers did in King Philip's time

Immigration

An idea of the immigration that is pouring into this country from Europe may be gathered from the following dispatch from New York, which we clip from a Chicago paper of June 23

> The report of the Superintendent at Castle Garden shows that last week the number of emigrants from Liverpool was 4 863 from North Germany 3 161, from Glasgow and London 1 9 8 and in sailing vessels, 1,900 Total 11,822 Out of this number, 8,000 have gone West or into the interior. During the year ending May 31st, over 316 000 emigrants arrived at Castle Garden of whom more than a twentieth were Scandinavians Of these latter two thirds have gone West They brought with them nearly $500 000 There has been a gain to the population of this city from the influx of foreigners during the last twelve months of over 60,000 Out of 50 000 emigrants who arrived last month New York got 14 000 Illinois 6,000 Pennsylvania, nearly 6 000, New Jersey 1,500, New England States 3 000 Southern States, 1,700, and the others went West

The ripples of this wave of immigration are felt perceptibly even as far off as the Pacific States and the rapidly rising tide will soon follow The Germans and Scandinavians especially are given to farming, and most of them push on past the great cities, and seek homes in the West We may expect within the next two years a large addition to our population from those nationalities There are none who make better citizens none who are more industrious and reliable Agents in search of homes in Oregon for [illegible] of Germans are frequently heard of and there is no indication of the times which is more worthy of being noted as promising well for the future of our State

The San Francisco Alta calls for an exploring expedition to Northern Bolivia, if the policy of looking out for new channels of commerce and for new sources of wealth is to be maintained

While all the Democratic papers in the State are clamoring for the substitution of the ballot for the [illegible] method of voting it may be as well to remind them that their party used to oppose the very same arguments they now advance Besides, it is undeniable that the viva voce method is more [illegible] for the detection of fraud than the ballot system With the ballot there is no way of deciding contests with such readiness and certainty as can be had under the present mode of voting A fraudulent vote may now be traced out and excluded with all ease because the full [illegible] for [illegible] preserved and there is no dodging it Under the ballot system the most that can be [illegible] to prove a vote illegal for there is no telling who the voter [illegible] for

The Roseburg E[illegible] refers to the fight that was made against Senator Williams on the question of a railroad for Southern Oregon and to the probability that a railroad will now be built through that part of the State and adds with some force Now, people of Southern Oregon, you may be able to see the glorious fruits of your Democratic victory"

The California Legislature, at its last session passed a bill permitting the city of Stockton to vote a subsidy to the Stockton and Visalia Railroad of $300,000, which was signed by Governor Haight The voters of Stockton, in pursuance of the law voted that amount by a large majority and now the Company demand of the Common Council that they shall levy a tax to meet the interest due on the whole amount, which interest is $21,000, being seven per cent. on the bonds. The Stockton authorities, having doubts of the constitutionality of the law, decline to levy the tax The railroad company have in consequence, commenced suit to compel the Common Council to comply with the law, and in this way the question will speedily be adjusted by the Supreme Court of California.

SUMMER WANDERINGS

BY A LADY CORRESPONDENT

July 1st —There has been very little poetry written in Oregon surprisingly little when the character of its scenery is considered It would seem then that something more than scenery is important to inspiration and that the [illegible] is acking I confess myself to finding it a very prosy country in spite of its mountains its rivers its prairies and all the charms of outdoors which certainly belong to it It is a country for painters [illegible] for poets [illegible] California is a country for poets more than painters. In Oregon one sees—in California one feels the beauty lavished abroad True there occasionally gets into a local paper, a bit of rhyme, which if not showing the hand of culture and genius gives evidence of the stirrings of the subtle element called the poetical gift And true there has lately glinted o[illegible] our appreciative vision rays from that diamond in the rough the gifted if not the polished Miller

But I do not know why I should have been led to say all this unless it was because I was thinking about the Wallamet river wondering if it was as monotonous to every one as to me—and was led by association of ideas to remember a pretty little scrap of verse which appeared in the E[illegible] prise a long time ago entitled "Ad Willamettam" (what a villainous spelling) and which I clipped to put away as a waif of Oregon song worth preserving The author of that poem saw something in the scene, I could not see which proves only my dullness not his delusion for it is vitally true that

> 'Tis not the outward garniture of things
> That the nigh [illegible] creation fa[illegible]
> But the [illegible] indwelling light
> That [illegible] aspect to the world

The scenery of the Wallamet is just of that pretty and tame kind that after once beholding the observer is satisfied—too often beholding is satiated The best part of it lies between Portland and Rock Island above the Falls After that is passed one wishes the banks and trees away that the open country may be seen, and whatever of variety lies beyond that skirting of timber which, though pretty enough of itself is an effectual bar to beholding anything except itself Therefore oh traveler in search of novelties when you have passed Oregon City the Falls and Rock Island, if you have been roused out of bed at four o clock in the morning, and are of a somnolent nature, take advice and a pillow and make up for lost time by a nap of any length you choose if you only wake up in Salem

However wide awake you may chance to be when landed in this decorous city, you will not be able to discover anything which you would take for a hotel unless it is the bank or the opera house. On inquiry a place will be pointed out to you which you remember to have passed on your way up from the landing, which you go to or stay away from—but it is my conviction that you will choose to stay away If you are of a hopeful disposition you will take comfort to yourself on having pointed out to you a building now in course of erection for hotel purposes of a substantial and beautiful appearance, and which when finished will be the handsomest hotel in the State Congratulating yourself that those who come after you shall be well lodged, hunt up an acquaintance and quarter yourself on him In this way you will secure good lodging cheap, for the Salemites are good livers and hospitable

It appears to me that the new hotel company missed an item in their calculations when they laid the foundations for so costly a structure where they have it For by the time it is finished the travel will come in a mile, perhaps back from the river This will cause the erection of a hotel on the east side of town, as it will draw various kinds of business in that direction The superior healthfulness and pleasantness of a site on the east side will make it very desirable to have a fine building put up there for the accommodation of citizens as well as the traveling public As the town heretofore clung to the riverside, so in future it will gravitate toward the railroad and more especially so, since it must grow in that direction, as it cannot spread over the river

Salem is the handsomest location in the State for a large town, because it can grow indefinitely without losing any of its best natural features, or charms of prospect It occupies already a good deal of ground, the lots being of unusual size—over a fourth of an acre each—and must, as it becomes more densely populated, solidify its contents by a division of lots Its situation is a good one as regards soil and drainage, being built on a gravelly plain rising gently from the river for a long way Immediately along the river are groves of fir and smaller shrubbery, while the banks of Mill creek and the hills to the south of town are beautifully ornamented with a similar growth interspersed with spreading oaks But the charm of Salem landscape is in the lovely outline and color of the Polk county hills on the west side of the river Visible from every point and more beautiful from the east side of town than from near the river, they furnish a picture to all lovers of fine landscape such as few localities offer Through the kindness of Gov Woods I had an opportunity of enjoying them in all their charming lights and shades, and from the best points of observation—the very best being about one mile east of the Penitentiary grounds, where the observer has to the west of him the town backed by the Polk county hills, immediately about him a level plain waving with grain fields and to the southeast the Waldo hills, another picturesque range of arable mountains There are pleasant drives all about Salem along the river and away from it but commend me always to a drive which gives the view I have mentioned, not forgetting to look for the snow peaks and blue range of the Cascades to northeast.

Salem is a comfortably built town with an air of stability and propriety about it. The residences which often aspire to be mansions, are most often surrounded with flowers and shrubbery, and the wide straight streets are lined with rows of maple and locust trees. There is a liberal donation of land in the center of town for public uses, which will sometime no doubt be beautified with elegant structures for public business

The handsomest building in Salem and the finest of its kind in the State is Reed's Opera House (If I could name the street on which it is situated I could do more than three-quarters of the inhabitants of this city of unnamed streets and unnumbered houses) The structure is of brick having on the ground floor rooms for stores a restaurant, etc, on the floor above a large and elegant hall with gallery and stage, besides two or three handsome offices in front, while the third floor is all designed for offices A flat roof affords a lofty promenade and a grand view of the town and its surroundings It was an experiment—the building of so expensive a block in so quiet going a town as Salem—but I should judge that it is in a fair way to become remunerative property from the frequency of the demand for a place of public meeting and amusement The bank building and a block of fine stores adjoining impart an air of prosperity and taste to a business locality which speaks well for the financial and aesthetic condition of their owners.

Of manufactures in Salem, one of the chief establishments is the woolen mill under the management of the Governor elect, who is also a large shareholder The estimated value of the establishment is $300 000. It manufactures blankets flannels cloths tweeds, cassimeres yarn and knit goods annually to the amount of about $200 000 Of flouring mills there are two both producing an excellent brand of flour lumber mills, three—one outside the city limits and sash and door factories, four All these factories produce a large amount of export manufactures and are constantly running The pioneer oil mill of the State is located at Salem Two tanneries and two foundry and machine shops complete the list of important manufactories When the People's Transportation Company is mentioned we have the exponents of most of the business of Salem outside of merchandising in dry goods hardware and groceries The professions are well represented that of medicine finding more patronage than any other perhaps The number of churches [illegible]—furnishes a calling to that number of clergymen while the Wallamet University and other schools employ a considerable corps of teachers

There are in Salem three lodges of Odd Fellows two of Masons and one of Good Templars A musical association is cultivating the growing talent of the town in that direction and various benevolent societies cherish the best impulses of our natures while they nourish the needy and encourage the afflicted In short Salem is a pleasant thriving sober industrious ambitious [illegible] capital If it is not the great central city of the State fifty years from now, it will be, because it is just the next door to it for a central city has got to be built up in the Wallamet Valley and will be begun very soon after this "cruel railroad war is over"

It is melancholy that human life grows shorter instead of longer I cannot see what induced people to live five or nine hundred years when they never did anything but tend flocks and roam about a sun burnt country As something to live for is almost daily added to the luxuries of life already in our possession, we decline to live long enough to become really acquainted with our own res urces [illegible] I have made a prophecy I want to see it verified but then, when it comes to pass [illegible] I shall not have the privilege of saying [illegible] I told you so

[illegible] Mr C B Woods [illegible] through British Columbia Washington Territory and the greater portion of Oregon [illegible] business men and [illegible] city [illegible] this purpose [illegible] all public [illegible] business officers [illegible] collecting the every possible [illegible] page of the Directory [illegible] data wanted [illegible] a page of advertise[illegible] [illegible] them for [illegible] accurate [illegible] list, for [illegible] ever issued from the [illegible] of the Pacific [illegible] numerous corps of [illegible] accurately [illegible] agents [illegible] the forthcoming every material [illegible] the [illegible] in question, volume. Such a [illegible] one to all business men especially as every book here [illegible] published is full of errors.

GOATS [illegible] The [illegible] says John Briscoe has a stock [illegible] of considerable enterprise, residing on the sea coast just north of Cape Disappointment has shown us a splendid specimen of wool clipped from a Vicuna goat in his possession The fleece shown us is of but twelve months growth, and measures seventeen and a quarter inches It is very fine and is of a silky texture and commands 40 cents per pound in the market Mr Briscoe's goats were originally imported from [illegible] where the very best hats are made from the fleeces of the Vicuna The region in which Mr B resides appears to be peculiarly adapted to the raising of these goats, judging from the results attained by him The goats are small and their average fleece is about ten pounds

THE RAILROAD PROSPECTS —There are several men in town who have heretofore taken a lively interest in the west side railroad The late sale of the road franchise had taken them somewhat aback and very naturally, too because they could not know what might be the intention of Mr Holladay in regard to the road There was some fear that he might have purchased the franchise to stop the building of the road But we have not met any of these gentlemen who are not now satisfied that the prospect for the early construction of the road and its equipment, is better than at any time since the commencement of the enterprise Mr Holladay gives the most satisfactory assurances in that behalf, and he evidently means business.

A PROPER INQUIRY —For several weeks and, [illegible] for months there have been heard complaints and charges against the management of the County Poor House and Farm till the matter has come to be something of a public scandal. The poor themselves have complained of being badly fed and of being neglected in regard to [illegible] treatment The County Commissioners, who are responsible for the management of the place owed it to themselves and to the public to have the facts ascertained and published The old Board, however declined to pay any attention to the matter The new County Judge and Commissioners have entered upon an investigation which will probably be concluded to-day

LOOK OUT FOR THE MARSHAL —Yesterday we [illegible] that Marshal Saunders and his deputies were engaged in the very proper business of giving warning to all owners or occupants of filthy premises to clean up The officers are going through the city and wherever they find filth or [illegible] deposits the responsible parties will be [illegible] to remove them at once The weather is such that these and similar sanitary precautions [illegible] be taken at once or the consequences to [illegible] may be serious There are already a great many people affected with summer complaints and unless care be exercised we shall be liable to all the ills of a sickly season as well as a heated term

CIRCUIT COURT —UPTON JUDGE —Monday July 11 —Edward Kahn vs. Lewis Love.—Demurrer to complaint sustained, plaintiff has leave to file amended complaint on or before Wednesday next.

Oregon Iron Works vs A C Gibbs et als.—Defendants withdraw their demurrer to complaint, and by consent of parties judgment taken against defendants for $508

Charles Jall vs Multnomah County—Action for damages sustained by plaintiff's wife falling from a bridge in East Portland case on trial at the adjournment of the Court

U S DISTRICT COURT—DEADY JUDGE —Monday, July 11—Petit Jury called and P. Kelly and [illegible] were excused

Order, that the Marshal summon four persons to serve as petit jurors

Mrs. Price Fuller—in Bankruptcy—motion to modify injunction set for hearing on Monday the 18th instant

Grand Jury came in and were discharged for the term

Adjourned till to morrow 10 A M

THE WEATHER —The superintendent of the [illegible] after some symptoms on Saturday and Sunday of relenting seems now to have rubbed out the score and to have started out anew for a protracted heated term The mercury was above ninety again yesterday while the air was pretty [illegible] dry and oppressive How long we are to endure his sort of [illegible] the aforesaid superintendent only knows but we trust he will very soon get different views about what is good for us

HAYING AND HARVESTING —The hot weather has greatly hastened the ripening of grass and the haying season has begun We are informed that the grain harvest has also begun, in some parts of the valley The winter wheat growing on the highlands of Polk and Yamhill is perhaps more forward than any crops of the valley Should the present [illegible] weather continue all grain will be quickly ripened and harvesting will have to be performed very promptly

PRICE REDUCED The Evening Commercial opened on its 5th half yearly volume yesterday at the reduced price of twelve and a half cents per week to city subscribers It is difficult to see how any paper can be supported at that price but perhaps the proprietors know the way it is to be done. There have been some changes in the business and editorial management of the Commercial. It is understood that Mr. Wm. A Daly takes charge

EMIGRATED AGAINST HIS WILL —By the Gar[illegible] a Mr Blake came passenger, who represents that while drunk some months ago in San Francisco he was robbed and emigrated as a seaman to Hong Kong [illegible] the American ship [illegible] upon [illegible] American Consul at Hong Kong he was rudely [illegible] and turned away without [illegible]

THEATRE [illegible] for the present as we understand Oro Fino [illegible] Mr Vinson proposes to go [illegible] in a day or two to make arrangements for [illegible] short season there Upon his return [illegible] by the sound of [illegible] it is probable that the company will again open the theatre for a short season prior to the State Fair during which the company will play at Salem

ANOTHER M[illegible] —The moonlight excursion of [illegible] evening was so pleasant an affair that it has been determined to have another one [illegible] The [illegible] will make a trip [illegible] to Vancouver and back starting [illegible] o'clock [illegible] military band and ice cream by [illegible]

INSTALLATION [illegible] meeting of the Minerva Lodge No [illegible] evening the following officers were [illegible] term by [illegible]

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 12, 1870.

LANGLEY'S PACIFIC COAST DIRECTORY.—Mr. C. J. Woods, agent for this work, is now in this city, having traveled already through British Columbia, Washington Territory and the greater portion of Oregon. His business is to collect statistics of all sorts, names of all public officers, business men and corporations, and information generally in regard to our city and State. For this purpose, he will call upon our county and city officers, and the officers of all public or business affairs, and the officers. Our people should afford him every possible aid in the work of collecting the information, as every page of the Directory contains, as much matter, will be a page of advertising for our State. Mr. Langley intends to publish for 1871, the fullest and most accurate directory of the Pacific States, ever issued from the press. He has in the field a numerous corps of agents who are instructed to procure, accurately, every material fact, for use in the forthcoming work. Such a book as the one in question, is a valuable one to all business men, especially as every book heretofore published is full of errors.

OREGON WOOL.—The Commercial says: "John Wilson, Esq., a stock raiser of considerable enterprise, residing on the sea coast, just north of Tillamook, has shown us a splendid specimen of wool, clipped from a Vicuna goat in his possession. The fleece shown us is of but eight months growth, and measures seventeen and a quarter inches. It is very fine and is of a silky texture, and commands 40 cents per pound. The goats of Mr. Briscoe's goats were originally imported from Bolivia, where the very best wool is obtained from the fleeces of the Vicuna. The region in which Mr. B. resides, appears to be peculiarly adapted to the raising of these goats, judging from the results attained by him. The goats do well, and their average fleece is about six pounds."

THE RAILROAD PROSPECT.—There are several gentlemen who have heretofore taken a lively interest in the west side railroad. The late sale of the franchise had taken them somewhat by surprise, and very naturally, too, because they did not know what might be the intention of Mr. Holladay in regard to the road. There was a fear that he might have purchased the franchise to stop the building of the road. But we can assure any of these gentlemen who are not satisfied that the prospect for the early construction of the road and its equipment, is better than at any time since the commencement of the enterprise. Mr. Holladay gives the most satisfactory assurances in that behalf, and he evidently means business.

AN INQUIRY.—For several weeks, and, indeed, months, there have been heard complaints against the management of the County Poor House and Farm, till the matter has become something of a public scandal. The paupers themselves, have complained of being ill-treated, of being neglected in regard to food, etc. The County Commissioners, responsible for the management of the institution to themselves and to the public to have them entertained and published. The Commissioners, however, declined to pay any attention to the matter. The new County Judge and Commissioners have entered upon an investigation, which will probably be concluded to-day.

BUSY—THE MARSHAL.—Yesterday we noticed Marshal Saunders and his deputies engaged in the very proper business of giving notice to all owners or occupants of filthy premises to clean up. The officers are going through the city and wherever they find filth or nuisances, the responsible parties will be notified to remove them at once. The weather is very warm and similar sanitary precautions should be taken at once, or the consequences to health may be serious. There are already a good many people affected with summer complaints, and if care be exercised we shall be free from the ills of a "sickly season" as well as the annoyance.

PROBATE COURT—WILLIAM UPTON, JUDGE.—Monday, July 11.—Estate of Lewis Love.—Demurrer sustained; plaintiff has leave to file amended complaint on or before Wednesday at 5 P. M.

W. Watts vs. A. O. Gibbs et als.—Defendants filed their demurrer to complaint, and failing to appear the parties, judgment taken against them for $350.

Dunlap vs. Multnomah County—Action for damages sustained by plaintiff's wife, falling from a defective sidewalk in Portland; case on trial at the adjournment of the Court.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—DEADY JUDGE.—Monday, July 11.—Petit Jury called and P. Kelly and [illegible] excused.

[illegible] the Marshal summon four persons to complete the panel.

U. S. vs. Pacific Bank, Bankruptcy—motion to [illegible] argued and set for hearing on Monday, the 18th.

Grand Jury came in and were discharged for the term.

Court adjourned till to-morrow 10 A. M.

WEATHER.—The superintendent of the weather showed symptoms on Saturday and Sunday of relenting, but seems now to have rubbed his hands and to have started out anew for a hot spell of it. The mercury was above 90 yesterday, while the air was peculiarly oppressive. "How long we are to endure this sort of thing, the aforesaid superintendent only knows; but we trust he will very soon conclude about what is good for us.

HAYING AND HARVESTING.—The hot weather has hastened the ripening of grass, and haying has begun. We are informed that harvesting wheat has also begun, in some parts of the valley. The winter wheat growing in the counties of Polk and Yamhill is perhaps further advanced than any crops of the valley. Should the present style of weather continue, all grain will be quickly ripened and harvesting will have to be pushed very promptly.

PRICE REDUCED.—The Evening Commercial commenced its second half-yearly volume yesterday, and reduced its price to twelve and a half cents per week to city subscribers. It is difficult to see how [illegible] can be supported at that price, but perhaps the proprietors know the way it is to be done. There has been some changes in the business and editorial management of the Commercial, and it is understood that Mr. Wm. A. Daly [illegible]

COMPLAINS AGAINST HIS WILL.—By the Gazette we learn that a Chinese passenger, who represents that he was drunk some months ago in San Francisco, was shanghaied and emigrated as a seaman to Hong Kong on board the American ship David H. Reed. He complains that upon applying to Col. Golding, American Consul at Hong Kong, he was rudely treated and turned off without satisfaction.

THEATRICALS. For the present, as we understand, the Theatre will remain closed. Mr. Vinson will go to Astoria in a day or two to make arrangements for playing a short season there. He will then return "down by the sounding sea," while that the company will again return here for a short season prior to the opening of the season during which the company will play in Salem.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—The moonlight excursion of last Friday evening was so successful an affair, that it has been determined to have another right away. The Oneonta will make a trip to-morrow evening to Vancouver and return, leaving from the O. S. N. Co's wharf at 8 o'clock. Music by the military band and ice cream by Alisky & Hegele.

INSTALLATION.—At a meeting of the Minerva Lodge No. 19, I. O. O. F. last evening the following officers were installed to serve for the ensuing term: D. D. G. M., Chas Wintsingerode; C. A. [illegible] N. G.; L. Kraemer, V. G.; A. Goldsmith, Sec.; G. R. Smith, T.; P. Levin, P. S.

ARRIVAL.—The Hawaiian bark Garibaldi, arrived yesterday morning, 71 days from Hong Kong, with 275 Chinese passengers and 400 tons merchandise, consigned to Tin Wa Kee & Co. The vessel comes consigned to Allen & Lewis, of this city.

MARINE UNDER ORDERS.—The barkentine C. [illegible] of the same line as the Ida F. is now lying at Astoria, having run into the Columbia from Callao, South America, to await [illegible]

LAWYER.—Mr. J. J. Henderson, an old Oregonian and recent graduate of the Albany (N. Y.) Law School, has opened an office in this city for the practice of law.

RAILROAD SURVEY.—A surveying party in the employment of Ben Holladay will start to-morrow morning to survey the mountains to the north of this city for the purpose of determining whether any of the passes are practicable, and if so, whether preferable to the Fulton pass. The party will be under the immediate charge of Mr. Geo. H. Belden, civil engineer.

COUNTY COURT—HAMILTON, JUDGE.—In the matter of charges against the Keeper of County Poor, the Court was engaged examining witness up to the hour of adjournment; final decision will be rendered to-day.

ARRIVAL.—The bark Webfoot, Gage, Master, arrived yesterday morning from San Francisco, with a full cargo, part of which is material for the Oregon and California railroad.

China in New England.

[Cor. Boston Advertiser.]

NORTH ADAMS, Mass June 17 1870.

It is only in the bottomers's room of his factory that Mr. Sampson proposes to use his Chinese labor. For the other departments, the cutting the fashioning and sewing the "uppers" of the shoes, he intends to depend on the few white workmen who have stood by him, and the force of girls long in his employ. The Crispins are striving their utmost to get these away from him by every argument, falsehood, persuasion and threat in the power of men to invent; but should they succeed, they will only precipitate the suicide of their own order, for Mr. Sampson will at once divide his corps of Chinamen among the different rooms teach them the other departments of the trade, and then fill up the ranks by fresh recruits from California. I do not think, however, that he will be driven to this extremity, the cutters and other workmen remaining with him being men of natural independence, and moreover having already taken a liking to the new apprentices for the enthusiasm with which they take hold of the study of their trade: while if the women of the upper rooms are so foolish as to quit their benches, there ought to be enough to supply their places in the multitude of "starving workwomen" of whom Massachusetts has heard so much.

Two gangs are learning to last, trim and finish the shoes. In another corner of the room three Chinamen have set themselves to the task of mastering the pegging machine. This consummate specimen of Yankee invention needs a good deal of skill in the handling, as all can tell who have seen the devious course in which the curves of the sole are carried around the swift-falling punching and driving apparatus. The foot and both hands need to be busy, and the eyes on the alert. But to learn the combined movement, practice is more efficacious than precept; so these three apprentices, having been shown the rudiments are working away at their task by themselves, taking turns at the machine. The way in which the last will fly out at the wrong moment from under the awl, seems enough to discourage anybody; but they are not discouraged, but indicate approbation or disapprobation at each other's varying success with low exclamations, and stick to the job after more failures than Robert Bruce's famous spider, with a persistency which promises the spider's ultimate success. They have one grace which the spider is not shown by the record to have possessed, in a modesty approaching to shyness, so that while we stand watching close by, or while a friendly bevy of girls from up-stairs are looking on, the unruly machine swings about more wildly than ever. But withdraw to the other end of the room, and look at them furtively now and then, and we shall see that with every trial they tread the path of improvement toward perfection.

Your correspondent first visited the workshop on Thursday morning, two or three hours after the work of teaching had been begun, and saw the state of affairs he has endeavored to describe—the instructors working slowly and silently, the pupils silently watching every motion. Things looked encouraging, indeed; but they looked as if a long job had been begun, which the lack of language to communicate the simplest ideas would make tedious and difficult. He went there again on Thursday afternoon, six hours later in the day; and behold, the two "teams" were working at their benches, each man doing his appointed part in the completion of the shoe, and a heap of finished shoes testifying to the success of their first essays. It seems tame enough in the telling, but to the actual observation it appeared almost a miracle. Ah My and his friends no longer watch the teacher; they work away themselves in a business-like fashion, while the teacher watches them, but are ready to accept the slighest pantomimic hint from him as to any inaccuracy or awkward method in their work, and sure to correct the error next time. The instructor's brows no longer contract with anxiety and doubt at the obstacles to be overcome, but his eyes gleam with pleasure as he points to this or that Celestial mechanic and whispers: "That fellow, sir, is going to make a splendid workman!" Mr Sampson is naturally exultant at the success, substantially assured thus early of the venture which a few weeks ago seemed to involve so much risk and required so much courage. "That shoe," he says, affectionately handling one which has been turned out ready for market, "that shoe is as good as any one you could pick out of a hundred cases down stairs which the Crispins made." And, indeed, these Celestial mechanics have a nicety of touch and careful method that far surpass traits of the average French and Irish shoemakers who control the lodges and dictate the grade of work to be done in the western part of the State. It is said that one of them this morning having seen the teacher bend by accident one of the iron pegs at a certain point in the circuit of the sole, himself bent a peg at the same point in making his next shoe. But from what I have seen I am inclined to think many of the stories which come to us of the slavishness of Chinese imitation are the offspring of the exuberant humor of the Pacific coast, and that the conscientious faithfulness in the performance of every detail of an assigned task which gives rise to these tales, is not inconsistent with a good degree of independent judgment and sagacity on the part of the workmen, promising the best results in the quality of his work. The sort of shoes which Mr. Sampson turns out,—those for ladies' wear, laced or buttoned high about the ankle, which would be called boots in the retail store by clerks and customers,—are particularly adapted for this kind of labor, and I shall be mistaken if the Chinese-made goods do not presently take rank as the most desirable in New England.

PLAN OF THE FENIAN RAID ON CANADA.—The Burlington Free Press of June 22d has the following in regard to the recent Fenian raid:

The Fenian General Donnelly, in his remarks at the reunion of the Second regiment on Friday evening, made the first official statement, so far as we are aware, of the plan of the late Fenian raid on Canada. It was, in brief, to cross the Canada line at Franklin, with 1,500 men on Tuesday, to occupy a position, hold it on the defensive, compelling the Canadians to attack them or leave them unmolested, in the meantime to march a force to the railroad, seize a train and surprise St. Johns by railroad. The same operation was to have been undertaken from Derby, and Gen. Donnelly expressed his conviction that if their men had been on hand they should certainly have taken St. Johns and Richmond on the Grand Trunk. With so much of success to start with he believed the entire body of Irish Americans able to bear arms would have rushed to re-enforce them, and they would have taken Canada! The scheme failed, in his opinion, because, instead of 1,500 men less than 100 were on hand at the time set for the invasion. The attack on Eccles Hill, he said, failed because the men behaved badly. At the time he attributed this to cowardice; but on reflection he had come to the conclusion that the men were disheartened by the fewness of their numbers and by the thought that if captured they would probably be hung, and that their motive was the natural instinct of self-protection.

The general belief that there is a slight superfluity of divorce proceedings in Chicago may be justified by the fact that not once in ten times on an average is there a day's law reports which does not include something of this sort. A little commonplace item not worthy of special attention was tucked away in the Chicago papers on the 5th inst., stating that default was entered in twenty-four divorce cases on the previous day.

By a strange coincidence the first installment of the unfinished work of the late Charles Dickens, published since his demise, deals almost exclusively with graves and tombs, deaths, its mysteries and solemnities.

Sad Affair in Alameda, Cal.

The San Francisco Bulletin gives the following particulars of a sad affair which was mentioned in the telegraphic dispatches

Particulars of a melancholy accident at Fruit Vale, Alameda county, were received in San Francisco this morning, and the event to which we allude is chronicled with unfeigned sorrow. The account of the affair is a lesson in itself, and obviates the necessity for comment. G. D. Lynde, a well known citizen of this State, and formerly Superintendent of the Industrial School, resides at the little village of Fruit Vale with his family—wife and two boys—the latter aged eight and ten years respectively. Yesterday afternoon a San Francisco lad—aged about twelve years—whose name is unknown, came over to a neighbor's house on a visit. George, the eldest of the Lynde boys, met the stranger, and the two romped around the place together and became fast friends. At 3 o'clock the lads repaired to Lynde's barn and indulged in sundry innocent games common to youth. Finally, it was proposed that they should play "robbers"—it is not known as yet who made the suggestion—and the couple immediately arranged the preliminaries. Young Lynde stepped into a wardrobe, and the strange youth caught up a Spencer rifle leaning against a beam. A little parley ensued, and without intending to injure his newly-made friend, the stranger raised the rifle and aimed at young Lynde's breast. "Don't shoot," cried the frightened youth. Alas! the warning came too late. The weapon was discharged, and the half-ounce ball cruelly tore its way through Lynde's left lung, and from thence out of his back, through the wardrobe, the barn, a strip of board, and finally lodged in a piece of joist. The fatal shot was heard by the inmates of the house, and the terrible calamity which had befallen their family circle was soon realized. Tenderly the wounded boy was borne into the house and medical aid summoned. It was apparent that young Lynde's injuries were fatal, and his death was expected to take place momentarily. He lived through the night, and when our informant left Fruit Vale the poor fellow was supposed to be in a dying condition. The family has been sorely afflicted during the last few years. One of Mr. Lynde's sons was killed by a vicious horse, and the gentleman himself was seriously injured about a year ago by the accidental discharge of the same rifle which sent the deadly missile through his son. Surely the family cup of sorrow is overflowing.

A Michigan man, who some time since separated from his wife after several years of married life, recently advertised under an assumed name for a wife, and as it happened the woman answered the advertisement. Letters passed, and finally they met, with mutual surprise. But it all ended happily, as they resolved to forget the past, and to try again, determined to be happy together.

The Mayor of Montgomery, Ala., in the case of a negro charged with petty larceny, sustained the point that a pinchbeck breastpin, won in a "gift enterprise," was not the lawful property of the reputed owner, and that to take it was not theft.

OUR CITIZENS certainly deserve credit, for the energy they display to make the Oregon Immigration and Labor Exchange a success and benefit to the State, as well as the immigrant coming to our State. Every citizen should give all the aid in their power to help the large number of strangers coming to our State, and not forget to inform them that Kohn & Fishel, No. 91 Front street, have the largest stock of clothing in Oregon; other goods are, of superior quality and sold at extreme low prices.

Fast Living and its Consequences.—When "fast life" has undermined the strength, destroyed the appetite, impaired the digestion, and stolen the hue of health from the cheek—when the hand trembles, the spirits droop, and the whole physical and mental organization, languishes, is it possible to repair the evil, and restore the dilapidated system to full health and vigor? We answer that it is. Hundreds of cases have been cited, thousands might be cited, in which this regeneration has been accomplished by the regular and persistent use of PLANTATION BITTERS. Abstinence from the indulgences which have wrought the mischief is, of course, one of the means of restoration. But it is not sufficient alone. The consequences remain after the cause has been abandoned. A wholesome and genial tonic is absolutely necessary to rouse the corporeal and mental energies from their state of collapse. This good work it is the mission of the PLANTATION BITTERS to perform. But no other stimulant must be taken.

The Life Sustaining Organs.

The two organs which minister most directly to the support of the body, are the stomach and liver. In the former the first process of digestion takes place, under the action of that powerful solvent, the gastric juice. Thence the food, converted into a pulp, passes into the duodenum, where it is subjected to the action of the bile or gall, flowing from the liver, and of the fluid generated by the pancreas, or sweetbread of the system. These secretions separate the nutritious portion from the rest, and it is then taken up by the absorbent vessels and conveyed into the channels of circulation in the form of venous blood, while the waste matter is discharged through the bowels. Unless all the processes are duly performed, disease of some sort is inevitable, and the best of all medicinal agents for preserving or restoring the tone and regulating the action of three organs—(the stomach, liver and intestines)—by which the three-fold work is carried on, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Indigestion is generally accompanied by constipation, and the gentle cathartic operation of the Bitters is no less important in cases of this kind, than its tonic effect upon the stomach and the biliary gland. Beauty of person as well as health, depends in no small degree upon the regularity of the excretive functions. A sallow complexion, a thick opaque coarse skin, a tainted breath, rush of blood to the head, loss of memory, headache, and extreme mental depression, are the usual accompaniments of costiveness. A course of of the Bitters will infallibly relieve, and finally banish these obnoxious symptoms, while invigorating the stomach and promoting healthful action in the liver. This genial vegetable stomachic and alterative, strikes at disease in its primary sources, the assimilating, secretive and expulsive organs and the cures it effects are consequently thorough and complete

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

320 ACRES OF LAND, IN JACKSON COUNTY, for sale or exchange for city property. It is in the suburbs of Gasburg. Gasburg, like the beaver, is all "terminus". The branch of the Central Pacific Railroad will intersect the Oregon and California road at Gasburg. The Oregon Central will run through it as does the stage road now, and many a railroad as yet unthought of, will find its "terminus" in Gas-burg! The warm and dry winters, the mild Italian summers, the gushing spring water at short intervals, the lofty peaks of the Cascades on the east, the Coast Range on the west, the broad and fertile valleys on the north and south, and last, but not least, the inexhaustible forests on every hand make it naturally one of the finest "terminuses" that ever was attached onto the "tother end of any railroad. Also a one-third interest in a water-ditch and forty acres of mining lands, which have been worked for nine years and never failed to pay a dividend. Strawberries 5 cts per pound; ONE MULE at 20 cts. per pound, and groceries in proportion.

Life's Better Moments

Life has its moments
  [illegible]
And they lark [illegible]
  On the slope of the tomb
Blessings [illegible]
  As fairly as brief
[illegible] when happy
  And leave us in grief

[illegible] the morning
  [illegible] sky
Come on the sunbeams
  And off with them [illegible]
Shadows of evening
  [illegible]
Darkness enwraps them
  We see them no more

So life's better moments
  In brilliance appear
Dawning in beauty
  Our journey to cheer
Round us they linger
  Like shadows of even
Would that we like the[m]
  Might melt into Heaven

The Death of Lopez

PARTICULARS OF THE LAST HOURS OF THE DICTATOR—HOW HE DIED AND STRUGGLED FOR LIFE—HIS MOTHER THANKS HEAVEN THAT HE IS DEAD—SCENES AFTER HIS DEATH

When Lopez was surprised by the Brazilians he was mounted on a gray horse and trotted along with two of his aids, leaving all the rest of the party going on foot. This was the only time in which the Brazilians surprised the Dictator. The orderly of Col. Tavares, the Brazilian commander, as soon as he heard that the gray horseman was Lopez gave him a blow with a lance which wounded Lopez in the abdomen. At the same time others fired at him and his aides-de-camp, one of whom fell, having been wounded in the head. This was Caminos, one of Lopez's ministers. Although wounded again Lopez continued to ride at half gallop toward the woods near by. Just at the entrance of the woods lay a great swamp, wherein the horse's feet began to sink. To avoid any delay in his flight Lopez dismounted rapidly, took off his blouse, and disappeared among the trees.

General Camara was then approaching and was told by a Major that Lopez was there. The General doubted it, but dismounted and penetrated the woods, and found Lopez crossing a stream and endeavoring to reach the opposite bank. General Camara entered the stream and when at a short distance from Lopez said to him, "Surrender, Marshal; I am the Brazilian commander." As an answer Lopez fired a shot in the direction of Camara and, as he reached the bank, fell on his knees exhausted. In half a minute more Camara stood near him and ordered a soldier of the Ninth Infantry to disarm Lopez. Lopez did not quietly surrender, but struggled with the soldier for some time.

At the same moment a soldier of the cavalry came up and seeing the hard struggle fired at Lopez, the ball entering his heart. The Dictator fell down, and in ten minutes more he was dead.

HOW HE LOOKED WHEN KILLED.

When Lopez was killed his feet were in the water, his body lying up the bank of the stream. He wore blue pantaloons, with a gold [illegible], very fine shirtwaist, and [illegible] boots. His hat had been lost. In the pocket of his waistcoat a gold watch was found; on one of the [illegible] was a beautiful engraving of his monogram, F S L, and on the other were the arms of Paraguay, viz. a Phrygian cap, supported by a sword that rests near the vanquished lion of Castile, the words "Paz y Justicia" on the top and "Republica del Paraguay" below. The pockets of the blouse were also searched and the only things found were two penholders, some note paper, and an ivory ring, with the customary inscription "Vencer o morir."

THE LOPEZ FAMILY

were going after their road in two carts, Mrs Lynch and children occupying one and Lopez's mother and sisters another—this being the first one, and the other being escorted by a guard of soldiers. When Lieutenant Colonel Martins met Mrs Lynch's carriage, Colonel Pancho Lopez (about eighteen years old, and a son of the Dictator) did not readily obey the order to surrender, as the rest of the party did, but with lances and revolver offered most serious resistance. After some shots had been fired by him Colonel Martins exhausted his patience and killed the young man with his sword. Then Mrs. Lynch descended from her carriage and laid her son's dead body on the front seat of it. She wept bitterly, invoking "Panchito! Panchito!" and opening his eyes while saying this. Mrs Lynch wore a black satin dress with trimmings and flounces of white satin. Her hair was dressed as if for a soiree. On one of her fingers glittered four rings which sparkled with diamonds. The mother and sister of Lopez, when taken, were in one wooden cart, on their knees, thanking Providence for the tyrant's fall. The poor old lady Carrillo was sentenced to death, and Lieutenant Murizo had received instructions to lance her in case of being overtaken by the enemy.

A HORRIBLE STORY.

It is horrible to consider the reason why the Dictator had proposed himself to commit such a nefarious crime. When Lopez was [illegible], his mother was accused by a certain woman, the wife of Marco (who was whipped daily) of having planned the death of his son by means of poison, that was to be given him in the form of candy in an approaching festa. Lopez immediately summoned a council, composed of Resquin, Delgado, Falcon, Cavallero, President Maiz and Aguiar. Every member of this so called council except one, pronounced the story a mere fabrication, but Lopez, hearing of the result of the investigation, exclaimed, "Aveiro is my only friend," and ordered him to collect all evidence bearing on the case. It is useless to say that this infamous Aveiro complied with the wishes of his master and did it so strictly that he quite often slapped the face of the old woman and beat her with his sword. As a consequence of this Senorita Carrillo was condemned to death, and the maternal hand of the tyrant appended to the sentence the cumpra se of his authority.

THE CRUELTY OF LOPEZ TOWARD HIS MOTHER.

It is believed that this ferocious disposition in the character of Lopez toward his own mother was impressed on him by the influence of Mrs Lynch, who could never forgive her disapproval of her (Mrs Lynch's) relations to her son. This story was referred to the Count d'Eu by the lady herself in the presence of many Brazilian officers, soldiers, and a number of Paraguayans.

DANCING AROUND LOPEZ'S BODY.

A few minutes after the imprisonment of Mrs. Lynch and the death of her dear Panchito the body of El Supremo was brought in. He had four wounds and was barefooted; his feet were the admiration of those surrounding the body, such was their delicacy and fineness. While all Brazilians were contemplating the remnants of the man that for five years had disturbed the peace of four nations for his own selfish ask, some Paraguayan women which are [illegible] the party began to dance around the body. Colonel Paranhos ordered these furies to get off, and the body to be interred with that of Pancho, as requested by Mrs Lynch. Meanwhile Mrs. Lynch and several Brazilian officers cut Lopez's hair, the Brazilians dividing it among their friends.

A DANGEROUS WOMAN.

All of the officers of the Brazilians agree that Mrs Lynch is a charming, dangerous woman. Her behavior after the death of her paramour has been tempered with a high tone of delicacy and haughtiness. "The Marshal died as a hero and the chief of a State ought to die," said she, when told of the particulars of his death. Mrs Lynch was sent down to Asuncion on board of the Princesa. When she discovered the city from on deck of this steamer she wept most piteously. She is going to be sent to Rio Janeiro according to her own wishes, and thence to Europe. She has a fortune of upwards of $100,000. She said that ex Minister McMahon was in possession of 31,700 gold ounces, besides other 500 ounces to be delivered to Enrique Lopez, now in New York. One of the surviving sons of Mrs Lynch is Leopold, a beautiful boy of four years of age.

The officers of the

belong to the lowest strata of mankind. It was interesting to see how they change their feelings and language in five minutes. Resquin, Aveiro and Rivero—this diabolical trinity—gravely accused the man whom they served and whose orgies they had in sight. Many there who were insulted [illegible] of the [illegible] boys and [illegible] all kinds of savage and brutal [illegible]. Falcon, the Secretary of Finance of Lopez, was in charge of the prisoners. He did not know, and never knew anything about the [illegible] of the public money. He never [illegible] any balance of the state of the treasury, [illegible] treasure which only [illegible].

THE FATE OF [illegible]

"When was the [illegible] of Lopez?" asked the Count d'Eu of Falcon.

"It was on the [illegible] of all names of the State."

"What for [illegible]?" demanded the Prince.

"I fail to know it, sir. El Supremo had this thing [illegible] embezzled this."

"Why did you never desert?"

"Many a time I wanted to do so, but I have three children."

"Should you desert, although you were one of Lopez's ministers?"

"Certainly, sir, although his minister I lived only on sour crumbs (carangas agrias)."

While his own ministers depended only for their living on sour oranges, Lopez himself up to a few months before his death enjoyed all the comforts of life and even certain luxuries, which contrasted painfully with the starvation that prevailed among his people. Col Thompson, the Englishman and aid-de-camp of Lopez, had already written that the Marshal was a glutton; his statement is fully corroborated by his ministers, now in the hands of the allies.

LOPEZ'S LUNCH.

In all [illegible] time [illegible] and Mrs Lynch sat down at its head, having at their side their physician and the Englishman named Skinnell, and at the other head Gen Resquin and another chief. Although they sat down at the same table, meats were served separately to Lopez and his paramour, and the rest of his party. Skinnell [illegible] rose hungry from the table, but in the mean time he was obliged to appear as if he had participated in these banquets of Camacho, in which Sancho Panza and Don Quixote used to pay back to themselves many months of penury. Lopez and Mrs Lynch alone were allowed to turn glasses of good Bordeaux, which cost them fifty patacoons a box [illegible] of excellent [illegible].

THE END.

Such were the last scenes of this greatest struggle of South America, which under the name of Paraguayan war for more than five years held the attention of all the civilized world. Such was the end of the tyranny that since 1817 has oppressed that unhappy people—the Paraguayans.

A letter from Saratoga to the Boston Journal says the style is amazing this year. The Grecian Bend of former seasons is nowhere this year. The huge dresses worn leave the impression that a lady got up in style must have about her person a good sized lobster basket. Plain, smooth hair is scarcely seen. But the frizzed, porcupine, wide-awake style is the rage.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system, [illegible] their pallid emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, destroying maladies; see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who [illegible] publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily that he ever failed to cure [illegible] of his complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering or are under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written [illegible] binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use. For Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus swearing to certificates dupe the unwary. [illegible] weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find [illegible]. The only way to avoid mystification is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets; for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety [illegible] know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by [illegible].

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, [illegible] San Francisco.

REMEMBER TO PUT DR ON THE LETTER.

Consultation FREE.

Be [illegible] will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.
